The preparation for entering into the real corporate world has been kick-started today with an Aptitude Test conducted by the Training and Placement Cell of the Department of Commerce in collaboration with Career Launcher where students got an idea of question patterns.

The day started with an informative brief by teachers of Career Launcher where they explained the importance of this test in the most simplified and realistic manner. Students got to know the tips and tricks to attend the test smartly and precisely to solve different sections of the test, i.e., quantitative, verbal ability, and logical reasoning. This test is conducted by most companies before a personal interview to check the general aptitude level and suitability for their company of the candidate.

The test was 45 minutes which was attempted by 50-60 students from the Department of Commerce. Students were enthusiastic as well anxious for starting their preparation journey with one of the most crucial steps, that is an aptitude test but everyone came relaxed out of the examination hall after having one time experience of the test.

The session was wrapped after the test with insightful words from the faculty of Career Launcher in which they unfolded the cut-off patterns of various IIMs and corporate houses that let candidates into their organization. They also discussed the syllabus and sectional cut-off system of aptitude tests which is changed every year a little bit, and here comes to an end for today's session of the Aptitude Test.

Let us have a glimpse of today's successful event.
