The DDRS team aimed to provide a platform for parties to resolve disputes through a neutral mediation process, promoting an alternative to traditional legal avenues. The theme, "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam" (the world is one family), brought together representatives from 13 countries and various government entities, emphasizing global unity. The DDRS stall, led by Justice M.L. Mehta, the Founder and Chairman of DDRS, showcased real-world insights into dispute resolution, bridging the gap between theory and practical application. The collaboration with knowledgeable advocates and mediators further enriched the understanding of mediation's complexities.

The play illustrated how a divorce case was resolved through mediation. The play emphasized mediation as an effective Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) method, highlighting its informal, party-driven nature, confidentiality, and cost-effectiveness.

Day 3 featured a play on resolving a dishonored cheque case under section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, through mediation under the guidance. The storyline portrayed an elderly woman resolving a monetary dispute with her neighbor through DDRS mediation, emphasizing the cost-effectiveness and timeliness of this ADR method. Justice M.L. Mehta's presence added credibility, showcasing the tangible impact of mediation on legal conflicts.

The plays aimed to raise awareness about mediation's benefits, promoting comprehensive and customized agreements for mutually satisfied outcomes. The advantages of mediation, including informality, party-driven solutions, confidentiality, problem-solving, and cost-effectiveness, were thoroughly discussed. courtroom, contributing to a broader understanding of ADR among the general public. It was an excellent learning experience for the whole team.
