The Job and Internship Fair organized by the Training and Placement Cell of the Department of Journalism at Maims on 4th April 2024 was a dynamic platform that brought together 15 esteemed companies, including industry giants like India Today, First Partners, and Girl Power Talk. With a focus on media-related roles such as public relations, event management, and graphic designing, the fair provided students with a diverse array of opportunities to explore and engage with. Throughout the event, students had the chance to interact directly with representatives from these organizations, learning about job roles, company cultures, and career progression paths.

The fair facilitated not only networking opportunities but also real-time recruitment processes, with several companies conducting on-the-spot interviews and extending internship or job offers to enthusiastic students. Both participants and companies lauded the event for its effectiveness in bridging the gap between academia and industry, providing a conducive environment for talent acquisition and professional development. Overall, the fair served as a valuable stepping stone for students aspiring to carve out successful careers in the dynamic field of journalism and media.

The success of the Job and Internship Fair organized by the Training and Placement Cell of the Department of Journalism at Maims on 4th April 2024 was largely attributed to the leadership of Prof. (Dr.) Rajni Malhotra Dhingra, Director, MAIMS, along with the efforts of Ms. Shifali Ahuja, Head of Training and Placement Office (TPO), and Dr. Gulshan Kumar, Assistant Professor, BJMC. Their guidance and coordination ensured the seamless execution of the event, providing students with invaluable opportunities for career advancement in the media industry.

Ms. Shefali Ahuja, Head of the Training and Placement Cell, honoured Dr. Rajni Dhingra with a small token of appreciation during the fair.
