On 12 May 2026, BALLB, BBALLB first-year law students undertook an academic visit to the PM museum. The primary objective of the visit was to enhance students' understanding of India's political and constitutional development through the lives and contributions of the Prime Ministers of India. The museum provided students with an informative and interactive learning experience by showcasing archival records, digital exhibits, photographs, speeches, personal belongings, and important historical events associated with different Prime Ministers.

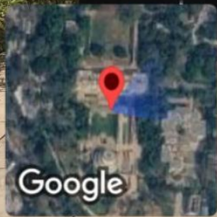

The museum, equipped with modern technology and immersive audio-visual presentations, reflected India's democratic journey after independence. Students explored galleries dedicated to various Prime Ministers and learned about their leadership, policy decisions, governance models, and contributions towards nation-building.

Interactive displays, multimedia installations, and virtual presentations helped students understand the evolution of parliamentary democracy and the functioning of the executive in India.

A significant part of the visit was the exploration of exhibits relating to constitutional values, national emergencies, economic reforms, foreign policy, scientific advancement, and social welfare initiatives introduced during different administrations. The visit encouraged students to connect theoretical concepts of political science, constitutional law, and governance with historical developments in India.

The visit also promoted research-oriented learning by enabling students to critically analyse historical policies, governance approaches, and constitutional developments in post-independence India. This academic visit effectively bridged the gap between classroom learning and practical historical understanding, offering students valuable insight into India's democratic heritage and the role of leadership in shaping the nation.
