Event Overview

The Training & Placement Cell, Department of Business Administration, MAIMS, organised a Mock Interview Session to provide students with practical exposure to professional recruitment processes. The session enhanced students' interview skills, confidence, and communication, while evaluating them on subject knowledge, clarity, body language, and professional conduct. Individualised feedback was provided to help students improve their performance for future internships and placements.

Introduction to the Interviewers

The session was conducted by a panel of distinguished professionals:

- Arunita Mukhopadhyay – A seasoned Communication Coach and Soft Skills Trainer specialising in personality development and professional communication enhancement.
- Shruti Mittal – An experienced Career Coach dedicated to guiding students in career planning, interview preparation, and professional growth.
- Stuti Nigam – A Verbal and Communication Trainer focused on improving articulation, confidence, and effective expression skills.
- Siddhartha Yawalkar – Director of The Hiring Company with expertise in talent acquisition and industry-oriented recruitment practices.

The panel assessed students' overall readiness for corporate interviews and offered constructive feedback to enhance their professional preparedness.

The objectives of the session were:

- To provide students with practical exposure to real-time interview scenarios.
- To assess students' communication skills, subject knowledge, and professional presentation.
- To help students understand recruiter expectations during interviews.
- To review and evaluate students' resumes in alignment with interview performance.
- To provide structured feedback through detailed evaluation sheets for improvement.

Key Highlights

1. One-on-One Interview Experience

The session was conducted in an individual interview format, simulating real corporate recruitment processes. This enabled students to experience personalised questioning and direct interaction with interviewers, enhancing their confidence and clarity of responses.

2. Resume Review and Justification

Each student's resume was reviewed prior to or during the interview. Interviewers assessed the relevance, structure, and authenticity of the content and evaluated how effectively students justified their academic achievements, internships, skills, and extracurricular involvement.

3. Comprehensive Evaluation

Students were assessed on multiple parameters including communication skills, subject knowledge, problem-solving ability, confidence, body language, and overall professional demeanor. Emphasis was placed on clarity, structured thinking, and articulation.

4. Structured Feedback and Evaluation Sheets

Each participant received a detailed evaluation sheet highlighting strengths and areas requiring improvement. The personalised feedback helped students identify specific gaps and provided direction for improvement.

5. Interactive Guidance and Improvement Areas

Following the interviews, students were guided on improving their responses to HR and situational questions, refining resume content, and enhancing overall interview readiness.

Conclusion

The Mock Interview Session served as a valuable and practical learning platform for students. The individual interview format, combined with resume review and structured evaluation sheets, provided meaningful insights into corporate expectations.

The initiative by the Training & Placement Cell significantly contributed to strengthening students' confidence, professional presentation, and overall preparedness for internships and placements.
